Hog Thieves Arrested.

Parson Jim Morrison and co-adjutor, Bill Higdon, were arrested in Georgia last week by J. H. Northcutt and brought to Jasper to answer the charge of hog stealing. Morrison was conducting a heated revival at the time of his arrest. Trial before the justice took place Saturday and in default of bail both parties were remanded to jail. There is much interest displayed here in the case, as several parties have missed hogs and would like to discover the cause. We hope these oleaginous hypocrites will get their deserts.

Austin Coppinger was in Whitwell Saturday.

OUR DEVIL'S CORNER.

To the Bridgeport Rhymster.

You sit on the foot hills of lofty Parnassus
And make ugly faces and wickedly "sass" us
Till truly 'tis hard to decide which the worse is,
Your transcendent cheek or the style of your verses;
For the breath of your Muse has the flavor of onions,
And your poetic feet seem afflicted with bunions,
And so you go hobbling along through each ditty
With a weak, wobbly limp that arouses our pity.
If you'll list to the Satanic bard of Sequachee

Your work in the future will not be so botchy.
Mix an ounce and a drachm of the tincture of metre
With of a scruple of rhythm to make it seem sweeter
And a full quart of rhyme, give the whole a good shaking
And take a big swig every morn on awaking.
Now follow, dear "Hobo," these simple directions,
And you'll cease to bring shame to your friends and connections.
And perhaps in the end you may rise to the level
Of Byron and Moore and

Yours truly,
THE DEVIL.

How to get fat—buy it.

We shall have no fire works at our 4th of July celebration this year. Sequachee has no money to burn.

"Hustling for Bliss" is the caption of an article in a recent number of a Michigan paper. It is not, however an account of an elopement or revival, but relates to the candidacy of one Col. Bliss for the Governorship.

THE TRUTHFUL MAN.

THE TALE THAT WAS NEVER TOLD.

"Bars is queer varmint any way yer may take 'em" remarked the truthful man the other afternoon as he sat with the two "yaller" store cats perched upon his knee. "I remember onst when I was a boy I'd ben a-blackberryin' an' was a-totin' home nigh a bushel when I stopped ter rest a bit under a persimmon tree. Bimeby I clim the tree an' got so busy feedin' my face with ripe persimmons that I plum forgot everything else till I heerd a snuffin' noise an' looked down, an' thar right under me a-nosin' them berries was the biggest black bar you ever seen."

"Must a-been a mighty backward season for blackberries or a toler'ble early one for persimmons," said the quiet man softly. "Are yer sure it wan't green apples yer was eatin'?"

"I lowed I was tellin' this yer bar story myself, but I reckon I was mistook," said the truthful man with great dignity. "Pears like you've took the job offen my hands, an', by gum, you may finish it!"

And he stalked majestically away leaving his hearers to forever remain in ignorance of the facts relating to the bear and the blackberries.

Some of our boys went out last Sunday to geologize in the adamantine cliffs which surround the "Pocket." They returned laden with some very beautiful specimens of rock.

The Websterian Literary Society is doing some good work. It is wonderful to note the improvement that the boys have made in oratory. The election of officers, for the next three months came off last Saturday night. The election of a water carrier was the most interesting feature. W. A. Turner and A. W. Lewis were the candidates, the former received 28 votes, the latter 2. Mr. Turner said he did not like to run against such an unpopular man.

Mr. C. H. Pearson was agreeably surprised by the appearance of two little owls under the escort of Charlie Martin a few weeks ago. The donor's name was to have been kept secret, but it leaked out lately and now it is a case of the owls or the donor.
